Fraternity Board Report³

By Brian Millard, Fraternity Board President

I have been tasked with the responsibility to fill some very big shoes replacing Bob Stewart as President of the Fraternity Board. Bob put in a tremendous amount of time and energy over his 15 years of service to Nabor House and his leadership through the development and construction of the new House was critical. I would be remiss if I did not also mention Jeff Ray's immeasurable contribution of time and management of the construction process. These two alumni retired from the Board in 2013 and were replaced by Brian Waibel ('84) and Jay Frye ('82). Other Board members are Scott Block '91, John Spangler '95, Dr. Roger Higgs '60, '61, Jerry Brookhart '63, Kraig Soltwedel '01, and John Lock '11.

The generosity of our alumni continues to amaze me as we have received gifts or pledges in excess of $1.8 million. With our project cost of $2.34 million, we have raised over 75% of the total. This has allowed the Fraternity Board to keep Active Chapter rent at the lowest level of any of the other Ag fraternities on campus. The Active Chapter has done their part to keep costs low by recruiting one of the largest pledge classes (17) for the 2014-15 school year and the House will be at full capacity (41) in the fall. The Fraternity Board has a goal of raising the remaining funds to completely eliminate our debt on the House. This will allow the Board to have the maximum flexibility in regards to the Active Chapter rent and to do some long-term planning. Please consider making a contribution or pledge, or an additional donation if you have already made a contribution, and are in a position to help the Fraternity Board meet its goal.

Lastly, please come and celebrate the 75th anniversary of the founding of Nabor House with us on August 1-3, 2014. It will provide a great opportunity to catch up with fellow Nabors and pledge brothers to revisit some great memories, see the new House, and the U of I campus. You can make your reservations online at NaborHouse.com or by sending in the registration material that was mailed to you. I look forward to seeing you there.

Smooth Sailing in Spring 2014

By Nolan Lock, Spring 2014 President

My semester as president has been incredibly smooth and pain-free, thanks to a fantastic group of actives. Being elected president in a group of such a high quality of character was a very proud moment for me. Compared to the other students I've seen on campus, the men of Nabor House take initiative extremely well; I firmly believe they will represent Nabor House well in years to come.

The semester kicked off with a successful initiation. All the pledges from the fall semester qualified to activate, and we proudly welcomed them to membership. Already, they have been jumping to take leadership roles in the active chapter and I believe they are going to be a successful group of individuals.

The actives' number one goal this spring was to recruit more pledges than have come to Nabor House in years. Thanks to diligent work by the Rush Chairmen, great help from alumni, and support from the actives, we succeeded. We are very excited to have over fifteen great new young men pledge the house next fall.

Our largest hurdle this semester has been absorbing our spring pledge Ean Albers, a transfer student from Butler, into last fall's pledge class. Despite facing a few challenges such as pledge quizzes and a Manners Talk by himself, Ean has been an extremely successful pledge. We have really enjoyed his sense of humor and we look forward to his activation this fall.

We made a few updates around the house this semester. We've added a television in our billiards room downstairs and beautiful wooden blinds to the first floor. We have a few more things planned for the house; the quality of life for us just gets better and better!

On April 29th, the chapter celebrated the 75th anniversary date of our incorporation by inviting Al Mueller to dinner. We had an excellent pot roast dinner and all enjoyed the presence of a living Nabor legend.

We had an excellent semester recreationally. Our Nabor House "Yeoman" team advanced to the championship of the Fraternity League intramural tournament. I was most proud to see our small chapter outnumber the fans of our championship opponent about 2:1.

I could write a book about the great things happening at Nabor House, but honestly I'd rather our alumni come see the actives at the house in early August. I'm extraordinarily excited for the 75th anniversary celebration this summer in Champaign. Hope to see you there!

Fall 2013 Recap 5

By Delayne Durdle, Fall 2013 President

When I look back on the past semester and my tenure at Nabor House, it is difficult to believe that we have already been in the new house for a year and a half. Landscaping that was struggling, initially, has taken root and blossomed. The fall foliage has accentuated Nabor House's fine exterior and make it stand out from the rest of the buildings on Lincoln Street again; something that could not have been bragged about previously.

Over the past several decades, Nabor House has provided us all with stability, in the form of both bricks and brotherhood. One way in which we have ensured that future Nabors will have that stability, was updating the House documentation and policies. These updates coincide with Nabor House values, and it was exciting to see them occur. I want to thank Victor Johnson and John Lock for their coaching through numerous drafts of these at Member meetings.

We had ten pledges at the beginning of the fall, and they all met the expectations laid out for grades in the House Policy. They all went through the newly drafted I-week process and were initiated as Nabors. It was great to see all of the pledges from different walks of life come together to form a tight knit team and pledge class, and I enjoyed seeing the active chapter contribute to that.

The semester flew by with activities such as the annual canoe trip, Barn Dance, Homecoming, Walkout, Rush Weekends, and Dad's Day Weekend. Events like these gave everyone a chance to come and celebrate not only the new house, but our heritage and years of memories, as we approach our 75th Anniversary.

It was interesting for me to see how the library, full of legacy and tradition with its scrapbooks, drew us all in at different times of the year. At the beginning of the semester, our pledges gathered in the room to study and investigate the books for what fun might lie ahead, but as the year was coming to a close, the upper classmen took the library over to study for finals and look back at good memories.

Fraternity board also experienced a change with President Bob Stewart and Jeff Ray retiring from the Fraternity Board. Their faithful service throughout the construction of the house, as well as during the past semesters, was essential to our smooth transition into the changes we experienced. With that, I look forward to the expertise and advice that our new fraternity board will bring.

Finally, I'd like to thank the Active Chapter and Alumni for their support throughout the semester. Now, let us look forward to our 76th year of cooperation and brotherhood.

Room 1

Nolan Lock

Senior

Avon, Ill.

Agricultural Engineering

This Spring, Room 1 has been very nice. Personally, I've been taking quite a few nights out of the week to contribute toward the efforts of the Illini Pullers $\frac{1}{4}$ -scale tractor building team and helping out with the Student ASABE chapter. This semester has been a nice change of pace in my college career because most of my classes are in Crop Sciences instead of Engineering, due to my decision to pursue a Crop Science minor last fall. The highlight of my semester has been Spring Break in Panama City Beach with pledge brothers. Overall, it's tough to think this semester almost over.

Jared Fender

Freshman

Chrisman, Ill.

Crop Sciences

Just like Nolan said, Room 1 has been a luxury. Living in room one, we never have a dull moment. From playing random music such as Shania Twain, to having our random night talks about anything and everything. My first year living in Nabor House has been everything I had imagined. The biggest highlight of my year has been bonding with my pledge class through Initiation week, Sunday Night Dish, and activities such as walkout. Even though my grades are not as high as I would've hoped they were, I do believe without Nabor House I would not have adapted well to the college academics. My best time in Nabor House would have to be when I was the punter for the Intramural football team and punted the football and punted the football on the opposing teams one yard line.

Kendall Shimmin

Junior

Monmouth, Ill.

Animal Sciences

Even though I didn't live here majority of time this year, I was still very busy with the U of I judging teams. My classes are, just that. Classes. They're going well, and that's all I can say. I'm very excited about my future to return to Shimmin Farms.

Room 3

Gabe Stoll

Freshman

Mattoon, Ill.

Agricultural Engineering

Year one of my Nabor House experience has been nothing short of the expectations I had coming in as a freshman. It has been an absolute blast getting to live with everyone in this house, especially with my pledge class. I think it's pretty cool how the nine other individuals that make up my pledge class have gone from complete strangers to me to some of my closest friends. The pledging process as a whole was very good for me as it taught me the principles that make up an "IDEAL Nabor," and it has helped me get off to a good academic start to my college career with learning to adapt study hours into my daily routine. Outside of the house, I have begun serving as a Student Admissions Representative for the university (fancy name for a tour guide), so I guess if you are in need of a tour of campus, you now know a guy. As the year is beginning to wrap up, looking back on it sure brings back a lot of great memories, and I am looking forward to being back in the house again next year to continue educating, cooperating, and recreating with the other men that make up this house.

Having already been a U of I a year, it made coming into Nabor House a little bit of a challenge. But it's been good year and it felt good to become an active member. My favorite experience was walkout with my pledge brothers, because it brought us closer together and was just a really good time. Being Assistant Commissar this semester has had its annoyances, but it has help teach me to keep a cool head and plan ahead. Maybe the planning ahead part is still rough, because I still occasionally struggle with organizing time for personal matters, Rodeo Club, academics, and Nabor House. Luckily the guys here are willing to help. I'm glad I found Nabor House when I did.

Room 4

Jason Leigh
Senior
Hoopeston, Ill.
Agricultural Business

If I could sum up my senior year in one word it would be "netflix". I watched a lot of quality shows throughout the last two semesters. All joking aside as I get ready to graduate and I look on the last 4 years here I know deep down that this was the place I was supposed to be at from the start. Josh and I have been roommates from our freshman year and he is now my best friend. The friends I have made at Nabor House are guys that I will always be able to count on for the rest of my life. To truly sum up my college experience I would like to close with this quote from the famous movie Tommy Boy, "Maybe we weren't the smartest kids in school, heck maybe we spent a little too much time puking off balconies...but at least we had fun."

Josh Marten
Senior
Effingham, Ill.
Technical System Management

Well another semester is coming to a close and it seems as if it just started last week. Its been a great semester living with Jason and Little Bear. Like Jason said we have been together for quite some time now, and its hard to believe that soon we will be going our separate ways. This house has been the backbone of my success here at the U of I and I've made some great friends along the way. This semester has been no different; study a little when needed, but never letting the books get in the way of your true education.

Jacob Taylor
Senior
Iroquois, Ill.
Agricultural Economics

My first year here has gone in many ways far better than I ever could have expected. I've been loving being the new addition to room 4. I study a lot more than I ever did before, but I have quite a bit of fun too. I think against all odds, I've managed to learn, both inside and outside my studies, quite a bit during my time at the house. I managed to get a job on campus for this Summer, and I got pretty good grades last semester. All in all, everything is going pretty well.

Room 5

Grant Bale

Freshman

Mason City, Ill.

Agricultural Economics

My first semester as an active has been going extremely well. All the hard work my first semester has paid off and now I can officially say I am a Nabor. Classes have been going better than I expected, especially my ACE 199 class. A few other Nabors and I took this class on Agriculture Policy with no expectations. We went on a spring break trip to Washington D.C. to learn about the policy making process and my experience was amazing. The rest of the semester I will focus on my schoolwork and getting prepared to be Nabor House Treasurer next fall.

Brad Bernhard

Senior

Elwood, Ill.

Crop Sciences

It seems like every semester is busier and busier. I spent most of time this year studying, applying for jobs, applying for graduate school, and finding time to have fun. I spent my spring break in Washington, D.C. with my Ag Policy class. I learned a lot about the law making process and the current ag policy issues. The highlight of my semester so far has been being a part of the Nabor House intramurals teams. The flag football team made it to the quarterfinals and the basketball team lost in the championship game. The rest of the semester I plan on enjoying the nice weather and catching some fish with Grant and Wyatt.

Andy Gathman

Junior

Havana, Ill.

Agricultural Business

This semester has been very busy with school, work, and house activities. Being the rush chair has been a good experience and a headache at other times this year. This semester I was able to get a job here just north of town at Wood and Wood feedlot. It's been a great experience and I have learned so much from my time spent out there. I will also be going to Florida this semester with NAMA (National Agri-Marketing Association). It's hard to believe I will be half way done with college after this semester.

Room 6

Wyatt Bradshaw

Freshman

New Salem, Ill.

Agricultural Business

My first year at the University of Illinois at Nabor House has been outstanding. Spring semester has flew by and before I know it ill be a sophomore. Living in Room 6 with Lucas and Daniel has been quite an experience with all the sports we watch and all the heated debates we get into. Theres never a dull moment and always something to do with people coming and going. Over spring break a group of us took a trip to D.C. (not what your usual college student does) for a Ag Policy class, which was breath taking. I cant wait to see whats in store for me in the next 3 years in Nabor House, with opportunities and experiences. I wouldn't change a thing!!

Lucas Frye

Junior

Easton, Ill.

Agricultural Economics

Junior year at Nabor House has been quite the experience, and it's hard to believe I only have one more left. Living in Room 6 with Daniel and Wyatt has been a blast. Highlights for me this past year include the Intramural Bball finals, Ag Policy Tour to DC with guys from the house, and being elected UIUC's student trustee. I truly can't thank everyone enough in the Nabor House network for all of their help and support in the final endeavor. It will be quite the pleasure to say that 2/13 of UI Trustees are Nabors.

Daniel Allen

Junior

Arthur, Ill.

Civil Engineering

My junior year here at Nabor House has been the most busy, but I have finally hit the point in college where I am comfortable dealing with all of it. Coincidentally, this was also the year I learned the art of napping. I spend my time outside of class on the Steel Bridge Team, as well as playing on our intramural football and basketball teams. It was nice to have intramural teams that made deep playoff runs this year. I look forward to an internship with Turner Construction this summer, prior to a final triumphant return to room six for a third and final year.

Room 7

Clint Gwaltney

Sophomore

Dahlgren, Ill.

Environmental Sciences

Life in Room Seven has been one of the grandest treasures I have known. For we have had many discussions on kicking leebal and commy asses. In Room Seven we live by a strict code of manhooood. It is from this code based in the words of Jesus and John Wayne that I have learned a great deal about how the world turns. During this semester I competed at the National Collegiate Clay Target Competition in San Antonio TEXAS with the University of Illinois Trap and Skeet team. Overall I would say It has been A great Semester.

Matt Murphey

Sophomore

Tiskilwa, Ill.

Mechanical Engineering

I've had quite a busy semester as usual with classes, events at the house, and my involvement with the quarter-scale tractor pulling club, the Illini Pullers. I've enjoyed living in room 7 with Clint and Connor and we have made improvements that include new paint, posters, and a huge stereo system. I've also been busy on the committee that is planning Nabor House's 75th Anniversary celebration in August. I was fortunate to secure an offer to return to John Deere for another summer internship in Waterloo, Iowa. Hard to believe I'm close to being half done here at U of I, but I've enjoyed it so far with my classes and living at Nabor House.

Connor Bogner

Freshman

Chillicothe, Ill.

Electrical Engineering

Room seven, a taste of heaven. A fresh coat of John Deere Green has become the backdrop for our many posters portraying what "Merica" is truly about: Ford Mustangs, Hunting, the State of Texas (courtesy of Clint), and of course the good ole red, white, and blue painted nicely on Cheryl Bachman's bathing suit. To complement the surround sound (courtesy of Matt), lava lamps, and dance light display are two recliners and a sofa couch, all centered around our HD TV. Matt always keeps the party going, inviting any passerby into the room for a casual rave or spontaneous YouTube marathon. And Clint is one of a kind. I've learned so much from him like how to catch a possum using only duct tape, a few empty cans, and a partially eaten container of spam or the similarities between a twenty two caliber bullet and a twenty two year old fox that lives down the street (both are hard to get, can leave a hole in your heart, and they both can bang). Thanks to the great "brothers" I have here at Nabor House, my college experience is going well. Thirty-four is one, one is thirty-four.

Buzz Chart: Actives Recap

Room 8

Ean Albers
Sophomore
San Jose, Ill.
History

Room 8 may be small in square feet, but in heart...no sir. I have grown as an individual by immersing myself in the activities of room 8 such as watching My Five Wives on The Learning Channel, St. Louis Cardinals baseball, and learning the techniques of the reigning BS Ball champion, Clayton Myers. Although at times room 8 may quarrel, in the end, each member of the triumvirate feels as though they have improved their standing along with America's standing.

Philosophical questions and topics such as the following are often discussed:

Why do you always sleep in the room, Ean? — Matt Kemme & Clayton Myers.

What does fugazi mean? — Clayton Myers, in response to Big Sean's Guap.

I think she was Australian, but I'm not so sure. — Matt Kemme.

Room 5 would like everyone to believe that they occupy the greatest room in Nabor House history; however, as Ice Cube once artfully quipped, "You better chicketty-check yourself before you wriggety wreck yo self."

For myself, as a transfer pledge who just happens to be a lowly History major, life ain't been no crystal stair for me neither. I mean sure the Nabor House guys are great, but I've come to the conclusion that in four years I'll be unemployed or creating a kickstarter account for the San Jose, Illinois Museum of History. I know what you're saying, "How's he gonna make it in this life? (especially with his horrible grammar usage) My answer to you, "I don't know either, but for now I'm just kickin it wit my homies."

Matt Kemme
Sophomore
Shumway, Ill.
Technical Systems Management

My sophomore year has been an eventful one and living in room 8 has been entertaining by itself. This year has also been a busy one for me because this semester I am taking 20 credit hours to finish up my last semester at Parkland. Also last semester I was lucky enough to become the commissar. The house has taught me to manage my time accordingly between school, work, my job at the house, and the free time that I have.

Clayton Myers
Sophomore
Griggsville, Ill.
Molecular and Cellular Biology

My time in Room 8 has been great. This is my sophomore year, which has been a challenge by itself, but fortunately I haven't had too many problems with my roommates in Room 8. From Jared Fender and Seth Tolley living in here in the Fall as pledges, to my current roommates Ean Albers and Matt Kemme, this room has gotten along pretty well. This has been a big help in staying on top of my classes. It has also allowed me to go out and be apart of groups like Orange Krush and Pre-Optometry Club, and hold the Rush Chair office. I've had a great two semesters here at Nabor House and I look forward the next two years.

able to experience several different rooms and experience what it means to be a Nabor. Currently room 9 is treating me well. I find myself balancing my time between studies and frankly, wasting time. Hopefully we can continue to get great guys in the house. This summer I will be staying at the house while doing an internship with AgReliant.

Tristen Estep

Freshman

Benton, Ill.

Molecular and Cellular Biology

Year one at the University of Illinois has been quite an experience. Classes are hard but I am getting used to them. The house has helped allot in the transition to college. Having three sisters, living in a house full of guys has been a fun new experience. Room nine is great. We have achieved that important balance of studies and fun. I can't wait to see what crazy things the future brings.

Lance Curtis

Sophomore

Prairie City, Ill.

Agricultural Business

My second year at the University of Illinois seems to be going by in the blink of an eye. My experience as a student, Nabor, and roommate this year has been great. Being involved on campus with ExplorACES and club Nama, while making some changes to room 9 has kept myself busy. I'm not looking to slow down as I will be staying in room 9 over the summer as I intern for Farm Credit Illinois and make sure Nabor House stays in shape!

Room 10

Ben Harder

Junior

Shumway, Ill.

Molecular and Cellular Biology

This year I had the pleasure of living in room 10 with Austin Haskett and Ben Pickering. I think the house would unanimously vote our room as being the loudest room in the house, since Devin told us that he couldn't sleep in the dorms with us talking so loud. Our room was rarely boring and always interesting. One of my favorite memories in the fall semester was when Grant, Haskett and I would never miss an episode of Jerry Springer every day after lunch. Another highlight of the semester was when we took a road trip to Peoria just to get a coffee table for the room. We now don't have to leave the room to get water since we bought a water cooler to bring the room together. It was definitely the best idea that our room has ever had. In my opinion, room 10 was the best to be in this year in Nabor House.

Ben Pickering

Sophomore

Neponset, Ill.

Crop Sciences

Room ten has definitely been an experience these past two semesters. We have adopted the room motto as "I'll do it tomorrow". We are definitely the loudest room in the house and are often told by the rooms surrounding us. Being busy with either work or classes, it's a nice place to kick back and enjoy whatever show is being binged watched on netflix.

Austin Haskett

Senior

Gurnee, Ill.

Environmental Sciences

This year I got to live in room 10 with my two little brothers Ben Pickering and Ben Harder. This year we are the loudest, dumbest, and heaviest room in the house! Before we were in room 10, it was pretty dirty. We painted it, strung up rope lights and put in a dimmer switch. We also brought in a water cooler, and turned it into a theatre capable of seating 11 people comfortably. It was pretty swell.

Buzz Chart: Actives Recap

Room 11

Jake Gibbs

Senior

Room 11 has been rearranged a few times trying to utilize the space in the most efficient way possible. Classes are pretty simple this semester for the most part but I am finishing up getting my private pilot's license which, naturally, isn't as easy as the others. My future plans are to be married to Jennie DiJohn this Fall and moving to St. Louis for two years, as she will be working for Teach For America in the St. Louis public high schools. After that we will be moving closer to my home in Benton, Illinois and continue working for myself as part owner of Blue Ridge Tractor Co, while Jennie hopes to find a full-time physics or math teaching position at a local high school.

This semester has been a blur as it doesn't feel like it should be almost over. As each semester class wise gets harder and harder, I've found my decisions of my school path as well as career path have become deeply stressful as well. This semester along with focusing on my classes I have been debating on the path that will lead me to a satisfying career, and this has proven to be a difficult task. Simply put, my future plans are to become a M.D. specializing in pediatric cardiology. The steps and measures I've been contemplating to reach this ultimate goal have been more complex. Other than that, I couldn't have asked for a better experience throughout my senior year as the memories and friends I've made in this house will surely last a lifetime.

Devin Hammer

Senior

Shumway, Ill.

Crop Sciences

Been living with two of my favorite guys in the house the past 3 semesters and it's been great. We have rearranged our set-up at least many times. Living on the 3th floor is much less noisy than the second floor but it's still easy to keep social within the house. I'm a graduating senior so this will be my last semester and I'll always have fond memories of Nabor House whether it's the old 1002 or the new one. I am most likely moving to Madison, Wisconsin to complete a graduate program in Weed Science and can hopefully move on after that with a career in crop protection research. It'll be strange not living in Urbana since it's been my home for the past 4 years, but I'm excited for the change and the opportunity to broaden my horizons.

Room 12

Jacob Taylor

Senior

Iriquois, Ill.

Agricultural Economics

Things are going really well in room 12. I have been studying a majority of the time. I joined the financial planning program at the last minute so I am playing catch up. Despite that I still manage to have fun from time to time with the help of the other guys in the house.

Cade Hayden
Freshman
Pittsfield, Ill.
Crop Sciences

Going through the pledging process has really helped me to appreciate the house and become very close to my pledge brothers. I have really enjoyed my first year so far and look forward to the upcoming years. Room 12 with Trace and Jacob never has a dull moment. We are usually spread out between work, studying, and class but it is a really good time when we are all together watching Archer or something on Netflix. Our pledge class will be taking another walkout to Pike County this spring to bring Ean into our pledge class. I'm looking forward to ending out the year and starting my internship at Dow AgroSciences this summer!

Trace Elliott
Senior
Rankin, Ill.
Technical Systems Management

Room 12 has come a long way since the construction of the House. Since it is one of the smallest rooms in the house it has been deemed undesirable by many but Jacob, Cade, and I have each put contributions into it this year vastly improving the overall functionality of the room. Though we are always on the go we very seldomly all in the room but when all three of us are something like Battlefield 4, Halo, or Netflix always seems to come on. I can say that since transferring into the UofI I have really enjoyed my decision of living at Nabor House. I am positive that I have made more friends and memories here than I ever would have if I would have lived anywhere else on campus.

Senior Plans: What the Future Holds

Nolan Lock

Senior | Avon, Ill. | Ag Engineering
Grad Date: December 2014

5 year plan: Ideally, I'd like to find a design or test engineering job somewhere in Illinois or bordering state. I'd like to stay involved in ASABE, but also get involved in a few things I haven't done since high school, like staying fit and reading more books. After five years in the field, I'd like to take a step back and consider my long term plan before completely settling down.

25 year plan: After getting a feel for the corporate/office field of engineering, I'll probably take a good hard look at my long range plan. Honestly, I don't know if I'll stick there, transition to sales/marketing, return to school for a master's or MBA, or find something completely different to work towards. In any case, I'd sure like to stay near my family, have a couple kids, and keep my good health.

Jake Gibbs

Senior | Benton, Ill. | Agricultural and Consumer Economics
Graduation Date: May 2014

5 year: I hope to start paying dividends to those who have invested in Blue Ridge Tractor or at least breaking even with our start up costs. I also hope to be living somewhere more permanent with my wife Jennie.

25 year: Living in a home Jennie and I have built ourselves with children in a state suitable for prosperity. I also hope Blue Ridge Tractor is still profitable and we are able to keep investing in ourselves by opening dealerships in new locations.

Senior Plans: What the Future Holds

15

Jason Leigh

Senior | Hoopeston, Ill. | Agriculture and Consumer Economics
Grad Date: May 2014

5 year plan: Ideally, I'd like to be working with GPS units for John Deere. I feel that precision ag is the future and this is a huge interest of mine. Along with working for John Deere I would like to be slowly taking over larger responsibilities on our family farm. I need to be paying off the money that the University of Illinois stole from me...just kidding...but seriously why is tuition that much? Hopefully i'm also out of my parents house at that time (but since they're not charging rent this probably isn't likely). I would also like to be coaching middle school boys basketball and starting my Brad Stevens like career.

25 years: In 25 years I would like to be the 5th generation to be working on our family farm. I hope to be a prominent figure in our area by being involved in our local 4-H and FFA. By this time I hope to be the head coach of a high school boys basketball program with an all time winning percentage around 85% with at least 2 state championships, and school's basketball court being considered to be named after me (but besides winning titles I want to make a difference in the community). I also hope to have a family and 3 kids by then.

Jacob Taylor

Senior | Iroquois, Ill. | Agriculture and Consumer Economics
Graduation Date: May 2014

5 Years: I was recently hired by Busey Wealth Management as a Financial Planner, this means I will be continuously studying for the next several years to earn my Certified Financial Planner designation. I will still be in Champaign, Urbana for this period of time, working within the Busey Banking system. I hope to start chipping away at my school debt, start saving for retirement, and run my first full marathon during this time.

25 Years: 25 years is a long ways out, but it will be here sooner than I know it. I am not sure where I will be, or what I will be doing. If I had to make a guess, I hope to still be working in financial services but in a different area. I honestly hope to put my skills in investment to work to start a Philanthropic trust to help develop education and opportunities in rural America.

Brad Bernhard

Senior | Elwood, Ill. | Crop Sciences

Grad Date: May 2014

5 year plan: Complete my Master's Degree and begin my career getting paid for doing something that I love.

25 year plan: I will be having a successful career and enjoying life.

Devin Hammer

Senior Altamont, Ill. | Crop Sciences

Graduation Date: May 18, 2014

5 Year Plan: I want to get my M.S. degree and possibly my Ph.D, then start my career in the industry.

25 Year Plan: Hopefully, I have a family and am enjoying a career that I love. I hope that I can take all the lessons I've learned the 4 years I've lived at Nabor House and the rest of my life and apply them to my future.

Josh Marten

Senior | Effingham, Ill. | Technical Systems Management

Graduation Date: May 18, 2014

5 Year Plan: Upon graduation I will be moving to Clayton, Iowa where I will be working for Consolidated Grain and Barge. I plan on training at this facility for about a year and then moving to a new location where I can begin to be a manager or an assistant manager of my own grain facility. I plan on moving at least once if not more in the next 5 years depending on where opportunities arise within the company or where I feel I need to go to better my career.

25 Year Plan: In 25 years I hope to be back on the family farm, farming alongside my Uncle. I hope to be happily married with a few kids doing what I love. I hope by this point in my career that I have gone the places I want to visit and enjoy the ride this thing we call life has given me. In the end I want to have no regrets of what I have done and what I have accomplished. I also would like to be able to meet up with my best friends from the house to catch up over a cold beer and have some good laughs about the times we had in college.

Senior | Gurnee, Ill. | Natural Resources & Environmental Sciences

Graduation Date: May 18, 2014

5 year plan: I will begin my job working for Davey Tree Company.

25 year plan: I hope to move to Colorado, and start my own 100 acre woodlot.

Nabors Achieve Milestones

Frye Earns U of I Student Trustee Position

Nabor House senior-to-be Lucas Frye ('15) earned the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign student trustee position through a campus-wide vote in March. Frye will sit on the University of Illinois Board of Trustees. With Ed McMillan ('69) already as a permanent member of the board, Nabor House will be represented by two members on the board for the 2014-15 academic year. Frye earned the 1,195 votes of the 2,447 votes cast among three candidates, a 12-point victory over his closest competitor.

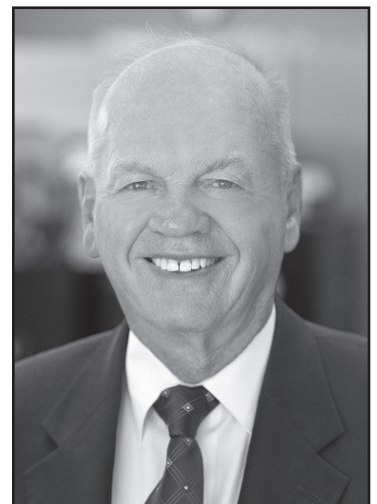

Bernhard Earns Bronze Tablet Honors

Nabor House graduating senior Brad Bernhard ('14) was earned a place on the University of Illinois Bronze Tablet for outstanding academic achievement in his career. Bronze Tablet honors are bestowed on Illinois alumni who graduate in the top three percent of their graduating class. Bernhard had a 3.9 GPA in crop sciences and plans to pursue a Master's degree. He is the 31st Nabor to earn Bronze Tablet recognition and first since Jay Kelley earned the distinction in 2007. With 31 Bronze Tablet honorees in 663 graduates (4.7 percent), Nabors earn the honors at a 57 percent better percentage than the average undergraduate population.

Jerry Brookhart Earns ACES Award of Merit

Nabor House alumnus Jerry Brookhart ('63) earned the Agricultural, Consumer and Environmental Sciences (ACES) Award of Merit. The Award of Merit is given annually to College of ACES' graduates who have made significant contributions to their chosen profession and to the human sciences and food and natural resources industries.

Know of more honors and recognitions Nabor alumni have earned? Email us at NaborHouse@gmail.com, and we'll get them included in next year's Nubbins and maybe even spotlight them on the brand-new NaborHouse.com.

Nabor House actives, led by rush chairs Clayton Myers and Andy Gathman, helped sign a 17-member pledge class for the 2014-15 school year. The 17-member class is tied for the largest pledge class in Nabor House history. A big thank you goes out to all the alumni who helped, not only with getting the word out about Nabor House to potential rushees, but also for donating to the new house that no doubt helped attract such great men to Nabor House. Everyone who has met the 17 men listed above, from alumni to actives, is excited about the quality of person that Nabor House continues to attract.

If you know a potential Nabor in the future, remember that you can find the contact information for each year's rush chairment on NaborHouse.com; you can also refer potential Nabors and their parents to the site, and they can get an inside look at Nabor House before visiting for a rush weekend. As always, email NaborHouse@gmail.com with any questions or ideas.

Nabor House is Now Online

Keep Up With All Things Nabor House on the Web

Nabor House is now online! Follow all things Nabor House at the new NaborHouse.com. There, you can keep up-to-date on the active chapter, find “Keeping Up With” features on Nabor alumni, refer potential Nabors to the site as a recruitment tool, update your information in our alumni database, read up on the history of Nabor House, and much more.

NaborHouse.com as a Recruitment Tool

We encourage all Nabors to seek out potential Nabors in high school and refer them to NaborHouse.com. There, you can find the names and contact information for the recruitment chairs and find the dates for the upcoming rush weekends. Potential Nabors and their parents can learn about Nabor House and its ideals before sending their son to Nabor House for a weekend.

Donate to Nabor House

You can donate to the Build Nabor House campaign from your living room; PayPal is set up to take credit card payments over the web. PayPal takes 3 percent of all donations as a fee; to make sure 100 percent of your donation goes to the building campaign, contact fraternity board president Brian Millard at millardbr@frontiernet.net or business agent Larry Dallas at lwd@conxxus.com.

Stoller Finds Houston-Area Nabor House Community

Nabor House alumnus and StollerUSA founder Jerry Stoller ('59) has founded Nabor House Community in Houston, Texas. The community gives youths growing up in poverty the opportunity for free day care in a Christ-centered environment.

Stoller, the lead donor to the Build Nabor House initiative, grew up in Barington, Ill., before his family sold the family farm and moved to Libertyville. He grew up without much money and didn't think that college was in his future; after all, neither of his parents had graduated high school. His vocational ag teacher, Dr. Ellery Knake, noticed Stoller was a question-asker and a dreamer, and Dr. Knake took an interest Stoller and helped convince him to enroll at the University of Illinois as a 21-year-old freshman.

Dr. Knake was a Nabor House alumnus ('49) and told Stoller of the money he could save there. The savings from Nabor House, coupled with always having another job, helped him get his degree from Illinois in agricultural sciences. Stoller went to Illinois and Nabor House with the goal of becoming a university professor, as Dr. Knake would go on to a 30-year tenure as an Illinois professor of agronomy.

After graduating from Illinois, Stoller went to Cornell to pursue his Master's degree and learned something about himself; he loved the research but disliked the politics of working academia. He applied to the University of Chicago school of meteorology, but, as luck would have his company that now sells products to 70 different countries.

As a young Nabor House alumnus, Stoller was a proponent expanding Nabor House to other campuses—to give other kids the same opportunity for college he took advantage of. While Nabor House remained on only the Urbana campus at Illinois, Stoller traveled the world.

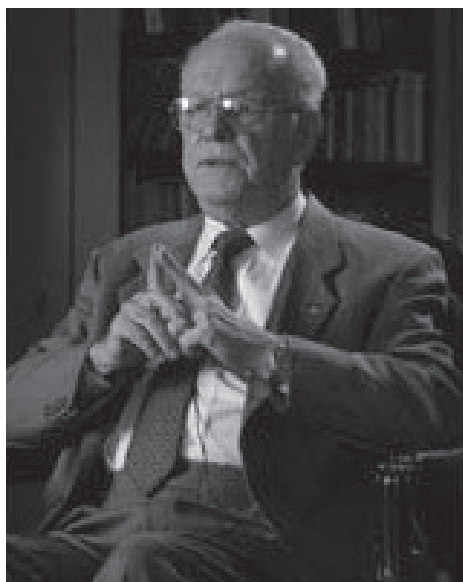

His business thrived and has now bought 20 other companies all over the world, including two in China. An idea was reinforced in him as he traveled the world.

"Everyone is established in the likeness of God," Stoller said. "You didn't have to approve of what they did, but you had to honor and respect them."

With that in mind, Stoller started the Stoller Foundation six years ago in Houston. The charitable organization is predicated on starting projects that involve the teaching of children with limited income sources and broken homes.

While Nabor House Fraternity has never expanded as Stoller once hoped, he named the Houston-area charity Nabor House Community. All of the reasons that led to Nabor House Fraternity finding its name—a Naborly welcome and the Good Neighbor parable from Luke 10:25-37—can easily be found today in Houston's Nabor House Community. As the Fraternity's founders surely intended, Stoller says, "It's good association; we're all Nabors."

it, took a job the day before he was informed of his acceptance. He saved as much money as he could; and in 1970, he founded StollerUSA.

"All I had was my wife, three kids and $8,000," Stoller said of the origins of

Stoller Founds Houston-Area Nabor House Community

While also teaching children to read and write, Nabor House Community raises about 90 children, ages 1-5, in a Christian environment—an especially important stage for children at an impressionable age with no fathers.

“The only way these youngsters can get self worth is from the heavenly father,” Stoller said.

The project has started with pre-k children—Stoller notes that humans are most impressionable between the ages of 3 and 4, and they have 20 times more brain cells at that age than teenagers—but it will soon expand to other age groups and other countries.

A Nabor House Community is set to start in Brazil in August, and the Nabor House Community will expand to include men and women all the way up to age 28 soon. The Nabor Club will be an after-school program for local grade schoolers and high schoolers, providing free pizza, basketball, volleyball, and Bible studies for two hours after school, complete with buses to take them home. The Nabor Coffee House will be an open community for 18-28-year-olds that will provide arts, games, poetry, and Christian environment—an alternative to bars for high school graduates and young professionals.

Stoller’s drive and dream has manifested into a company worth hundreds of millions of dollars—“I’ve been blessed enough for three lifetimes,” he said—and now he’s using his platform to spread Biblical principles across the world.

“It’s our job to inspire hope, to lift people up, to help people,” Stoller said. “That’s why God put us on earth.”

Tips From the StollerUSA Founder

Never Stop Learning

Jerry Stoller, now 78-years-old, spends four hours early each morning studying—a practice he started after moving out of Nabor House as a senior at Illinois and never stopped. “That’s also when I started getting into some really good jazz music,” he says.

Don’t Just Learn, Think

StollerUSA employs 25 scientists and 25 Ph.D. recipients. Stoller doesn’t have a doctoral degree, but he has been the man behind advances that have revolutionized the agricultural industry. The difference that sets the best in business apart from those with the best education? “School teaches people to learn, but you have to know how to think, how to be creative,” Stoller says.

Take Advantage of Your Opportunities

Stoller spent six years working for a nitrogen company in Savannah, Ga., before it expanded back to Illinois and he founded StollerUSA. “I worked with a lot of different crops, like cotton, tobacco and peanuts. That was probably the best experience I ever had.”

Give Back

In addition to founding Nabor House Community, which will help young boys and girls both domestically and abroad, Stoller has been the lead donor to the Build Nabor House initiative, donating more than $400,000 towards Nabor House’s brand-new $2.4 million facility. His generous donation—coupled with donations from more than 200 generous Nabor alums, has kept Nabor House as one of the most affordable housing options at the University of Illinois. To help Nabor House erase the $800,000 left and “Burn the Mortgage,” contact Fraternity Board President Brian Millard at millardbr@frontiernet.net.

Integrity

Leads by example and lives with integrity.

Dedication

Does more than his share of the work yet seeks less than his share of the credit.

Excellence

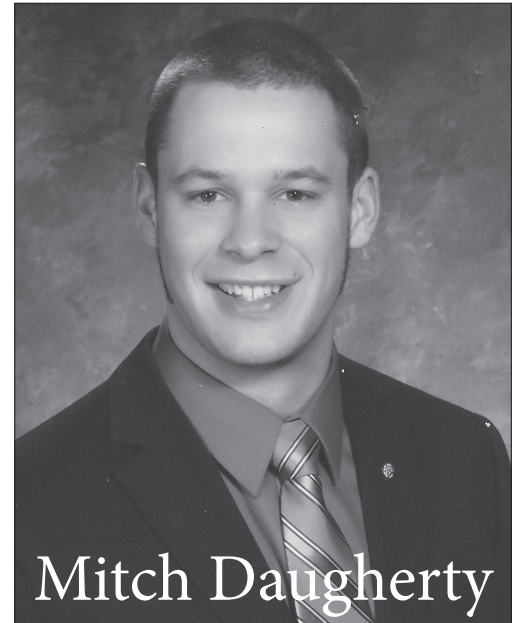

Takes pride in doing the best he can do as a student, leader, and Nabor.

Attitude

Uses a positive attitude to promote house harmony.

Leadership

Respects each individual and is an effective leader in serving others.

Mitch Daugherty

The IDEAL Nabor award rewards the member of the house that best exemplifies integrity, dedication, excellence, attitude, and leadership. These are traits that the founders sought in prospective members and traits that the house still strives for today. The member with the highest aggregate score from his peers earns the distinction of being that year's IDEAL Nabor.

It was an honor to live at the house while Mitch Daugherty was around, the only regret we have is that he should've come for all four years instead of two. Mitch exemplifies what it means to be a Nabor. While pledging as a Junior, Mitch worked harder than anyone else and humbly excepted work duties from those who were younger than him. Despite his rigorous pre-med curriculum Mitch always found time to do more than his part at the house. He took on the role of work chairman during the difficult new house transition and took on the role of house president during his last semester as an undergrad--a time when most med students take some time to relax. Mitch lives his life with great focus on integrity, dedication, excellence, attitude, and leadership and is extremely deserving of this award.

Paul Buchanan Passes Away

Paul Buchanan was the ninth member in the history of Nabor House, which is now on the verge of surpassing 700 members. His family made a very generous donation to the Build Nabor House Campaign, and he will be a missed loyal alumnus of Nabor House.

“Paul Buchanan was an early member of Nabor House attending college from 1938 to 1942. Paul remained a loyal supporter of Nabor House for the remainder of his life. Without the support of Nabor House, Paul would not have been able to afford room and board and would not have been able to attend college at all. Paul had many stories of his time at Nabor House that he shared regularly with friends and family. He claimed that he learned to cook and clean and even to dance while living at Nabor House. He used those skills throughout his life and cooked many great meals for family and friends and danced with his wife Sheila on a regular basis throughout their married life.”

Patrick O'Rourke Retires

Patrick O'Rourke ('69) announced his retirement from a long career as a professor at Illinois State University.

“The College of Agriculture at University of Illinois – and especially Nabor House -- gave me a really good kick start, 1965-69. It's carried me far and I wanted to let my friends from Nabor House know I am grateful for that. My experiences while in Nabor House were transformative.

“It's been a great ride these 31 years at ISU, 4 at Purdue and several years serving with my colleagues in industry and professional settings. I've had some great opportunities, met and worked with some outstanding people and, of course, got great joy from helping others especially young people learn and go forth into better lives.”

A Brief History of Nabor House

25

Nabor House Fraternity was founded by five men in 1939. Garrett W. Loy, Burdette B. Lutz, Walter D. Parks, Samuel F. Ridlen, and Bonard S. Wilson teamed together to found a low-cost, Christian, agricultural fraternity. Nabor House started with just seven members and has survived through 75 years and has more than 650 alumni.

The Beginning

In the late 1930s, the economy was still recovering from the Great Depression. Few farm kids could afford to go to the University of Illinois, and those that did had to support themselves by working several jobs at once, jobs which payed just 35 cents per hour. Burdette B. Lutz and Garrett W. Loy moved in together to save as much money as possible while living with someone with a familiar background. Their living arrangements were so modest that they often wore rubbers while studying to save heating costs and deal with the flooding in their basement. A third founder, Samuel F. Ridlen, was living in an attic and cooking his eggs in a tin hung over the furnace.

In a Chemistry lab, Lutz approached Loy about starting a men's cooperative house--a group of men that cooked and cleaned cooperatively to save money. There were women's cooperative fraternities on campus but no male cooperatives. The University did not condone such houses and didn't think it was possible for men to live together without a house mother. Lutz found a 10-man house at 410 W. High St. in Urbana and, with the help of his co-signing parents, leased the property for two years. The landlord and the University both assumed that the men would have a house mother as required by the University's Code on Student Affairs at the time--and Lutz's mother was prepared to move in if mandated--but the early members of Nabors proved self-sufficient, locating low-cost bunks and food while bringing fresh meat and produce from their family farms. The first Nabor House monthly bill was just $14.50.

After Lutz's lease was up, Loy spearheaded an attack to buy a property at 811 W. Oregon St. for $7,500. Though just two years old, Nabor House was an instant hit on campus. What started in a small, seven-person house quickly found the financing to purchase the 19-person capacity house at W. Oregon, and more than 20 men applied for the nine open positions. The house immediately jumped to its capacity and quickly paid off the mortgage by increasing the monthly house bill by almost 50 percent--all the way up to $22 per month.

As WWII continued, able-bodied men were drafted or enlisted in the armed forces. In the fall of 1942, Nabor House dwindled to four members in the house who had not enlisted in the armed forces or been drafted, so the property was rented to two families and a women's group. J. Robert Harris, who was a charter member of Nabor House, coordinated all the renters agreements, since he remained in Champaign due to his failing eyesight making him ineligible for the service. By 1946, Nabor House was back to operating at 100 percent.

Nabor House was one of the few cooperatives to survive WWII, and it did more than survive--it flourished. Nabor House won the Men's Independent Association title for highest GPA 12 times from the late 40s through the 50s and was featured twice in the Daily Illini for being the preeminent independent fraternity at the University of Illinois.

Life at 811 W. Oregon St.

Nabor House members paid off the mortgage of the house almost entirely on rent, which kept costs even lower than similar agricultural fraternities. The demand to rush the house was so high that the fraternity considered disallowing junior college members, fearing that they wouldn't gain the same depth of appreciation for the house in just two years; however, they were, and still remain, welcome to join.

With the house mortgage completely paid off and demand to join the house at an all-time high, Nabors started considering upgrading its facility yet again. A house at 1002 S. Lincoln Ave. was spotted as a potential location, and in 1965, Nabor House purchased the property previously inhabited by Sigma Sigma Sigma and moved in. The fraternity sold the property at 811 W. Oregon, which it had bought for $7,500, for $50,000, and paid $125,000 for the property on Lincoln, which Nabor House remains to this day.

How would you like to live at a place where everybody gets a half-housebill? Nabor House accomplishes this. Results, both visible and edible, are surprisingly good, and the time demanded of each member is surprisingly little. And the grades don't suffer, either. Always near the top, Nabor has won several scholarship awards from the Men's Independent Association.

A New Era: New House at 1002 S. Lincoln Ave.

The men of Nabor House lived in the same building for more than 45 years. In the 2000s, it became apparent that the Nabor House needed either a new house or a major renovation. After years of work with the City of Urbana, Nabor House drew up designs for a new house and obtained a Planned Unit Development from Urbana that ensured a new house could be built at any time. When Urbana upgraded their code requirements, the Nabor House Fraternity Board was faced with a hard deadline to complete either a renovation or new house.

In the summer of 2011, Fraternity Board president Bob Stewart announced plans to forge ahead on a completely new, $2.5 million facility. Within the first few months, hundreds of thousands of dollars poured in from alumni across the nation, and the Building Fund went over $1 million in less than a year. The Fraternity Board acted quickly, contracting Homeway Homes to construct the house off-site; as a result, the actives were displaced for only six weeks. In early October 2012, the actives moved in to one of the most state-of-the-art facilities on campus. Thanks to the generous donations of alumni, Nabor House remained one of the cheapest housing options on campus.

The new facility features 11 study rooms, a state-of-the-art kitchen, a library, a computer lab, and two recreation rooms. It holds a capacity of 42 men, giving Nabors the most square-footage per person of any fraternity on campus.
